The Academic Supervisor of the Postgraduate Programme of Studies is Associate Professor Nikolaos Monokrousos, Director of the Programme.

2. The postgraduate studies for this MSc programme lead to the acquisition of a Master's Degree. The duration of the studies depends on the kind of stream being chosen by the students. This stream is determined by the nature of the undertaken dissertation (experimental or non-experimental dissertation). For students who will choose a non-experimental dissertation, the full-time attendance of taught courses for two academic semesters and the preparation of a master's dissertation for one more semester is required.
